About 8 Mansions and House Gua Usage

We are now looking at one of the two 8 Mansions rings, this is the HOUSE GUA ring that relates to a property. You will not find this ring in any other LuoPan.

To Use:

When you point your SmartLuoPan® at the facing of a property, take a look at the box up ahead, and read the values as you see them. In this example, the SmartLuoPan® is pointing to North, which means it is a south SITTING house, or a Li House. The top row middle box, is the FACING, and in a Li house, our example, the facing palace Qi is YN which is short for Yan Nian.

You read the palaces as you see them, so moving clockwise from the facing palace, North, we then have North East, which is the Ho Hai for a South Sitting house and has been indicated by the letters HH.

The abbreviations for the 8 Types of Qi, for your convenience have been shared in brackets along with the element.

In case you forget which ring is for House Gua and which is for Personal Ming Gua (coming up), the ring that has FW written in the lower middle box is always the House Gua one, because in 8 Mansions, the sitting is always the

It is important to note that each of these are distinct in the kind of Qi they offer by way of quality, but not quantity. This means that one type is not More auspicious than another, but in a different ways.

To Apply:

Select a room in an auspicious sector as your master bedroom, or place your work-desk or spend more time in these areas. If you can use it for a main door that is wonderful but in 8 Mansions the door facing is more relevant.

60 Jia Zi Ring

The 60 Jia Zi Ring is color coded to match the 64 Hexagrams for the Kun Ren Yi formula, so you can ignore that if you are not using that aspect.

What you will find is an element shortcut, that says
Wd (Wood) not to be confused with water which is
W (Water)
E (Earth)
F (Fire)
M (Metal)

These elements are also known as the Na Yin or the "sound of the elements". They provide an additional layer of information, or hidden Qi. They may not actually be the same as the elements in the Jia Zi itself.

Do not confuse these elements with the elements of the hexagrams, those elements don't have Earth, simple way of distinguishing one from another.

Great Sun Formula Ring

1. This is a really simple ring to read. At one level it shows the 12 seasons on the LuoPan.
2. It also tells you the safe timing to repair a house when it is afflicted by any Sha Qi.
3. For example, you have the 5 yellow in the east. You cannot help it, you need to repair it urgently.
4. Pick a time frame that is the safest period. Look at the house facing 24 mountain. In this image it is facing SE1. The ring adjacent is showing the date Sept 23 to Oct 7. Do your repair between these dates and you have some element of protection.
